Miss Imp Presents

CONSENTING PARTNERS

SATURDAY | 8 MAY · 7.30PM

nonsuch
studios

The poster features a vibrant background with green and blue diagonal stripes and a pattern of overlapping, stylized human silhouettes in various shades of green and blue. The text is primarily in a bold, dark blue, sans-serif font, with the event title 'CONSENTING PARTNERS' being the largest and most prominent. The date and time are clearly stated below the title. The venue name 'nonsuch studios' is highlighted in a red rectangular box. At the bottom right, there is a circular logo for 'Miss Imp' with 'NOTTINGHAM' and 'EST. 1998' around the perimeter.

We're just a pair of silly boys who met doing the MissImp workshops. James is a successful owl whisperer who invented ¡GOOF! as a form of non-lethal martial art. Duncan is a honky tonk player who was asked to join after James saw him swallow a watermelon whole.

Rosie & Pippa (which one's which?! They don't even know) met at their audition for The Vortex (the all-female Harold team) and have tolerated each other ever since. Currently preparing to take their sketch show to the Edinburgh Fringe Festival, you'll be seeing more of this duo in various forms.

More than 66 million years ago Tyrannosaurus Rex bros, Tyran and Rex, wowed the cretaceous period with very unique short improv scenes full of rip-roaring energy. Possessing inflatable powers of time travel, the dinosaurs have returned to bring you something sharp-toothed and very memorable.

Pat Robinson and Julie Hanson are Sisters of No Mercy. They create fantastic scenes with diverse characters and genres, drawing on their lifelong experiences and observations!

Three vowels, two Ns, and a B, that's Ben and Ian in a nutshell. Two Edinburgh fringe veterans team up for a bizarre and whimsical string of scenes. With clear influences from A Bit of Fry and Laurie, and more than ten years of improv experience between them, you can't miss this!

The Improclaimers are an improvised musical duo. The audience creates the set list, and The Improclaimers craft the suggestions into an unforgettable set of pop hits. From heartfelt ballads to punk anthems, this promises to be a gig to remember.
